I love Dover. I moved here i years ago and have never looked back. One of the things i love is this city grows but keeps the smaller town feeling. People are friendly in general. The city is well run. The leadership class from the chamber of commerce is awesome.

But nothing made Dover more wonderful than seeing those mounted officers patrolling/strolling around town.

I realize the expense to keep them is high in a time of constant budget pressures, but i also know many who will support this financially if we just make the call.out!

I urge you to try that before just dismissing this wonderful police activity.
